Did you know?

- Built in 1902, the West Baden Springs Hotel's six-story domed atrium was the world's largest clear-span dome prior to modern day arenas. It is now a National Historic Landmark (see page 151).
- Indiana became the 19th state in 1816.
- Indiana borders Lake Michigan. That's right – we have 24 miles of beaches (see page 39).
- The Children's Museum of Indianapolis is the world's largest children's museum (see page 78).
- In the early 1900s, T.C. Steele, an award-winning artist, was among the first to paint the rolling hills of Brown County (see page 117).
- Northern Indiana is home to the second largest population of Amish in the nation (see page 32).
- Abraham Lincoln was born in Kentucky and started his political career in Illinois, but did you know he grew up in Indiana (see page 27)?
- The Wabash River is the longest free-flowing river east of the Mississippi.
- Parke County, home to 31 covered bridges, is the largest populated area of covered bridges in the state, possibly the nation (see page 96).

By John Gray

Sometimes when my wife, Gloria, and I are traveling, we like to split up for a little while. She goes one way. I go another. That way, we have a little something extra to talk about when we meet back up. We did that on our honeymoon 36 years ago and we did it on our most recent weekend getaway — to Northern Indiana.

We stopped at The Village at Winona, the charming art, shopping and dining cluster surrounding Winona Lake, where Gloria lingered a bit too long at the waterfront Artisan Court shops, so I decided to visit a few of the area's art galleries.

A good decision, it turns out. First, I saw a lot to admire at Two Red Chairs (featuring woodwork and paintings as well as a nifty string of large windows offering a view of the workshop). Then, at Gallery D, I saw the powerful fine art photography of John Eric Hawkins (I loved the extreme insect close-ups) and got to chat with the artist himself — after he came out from behind his drum set. “Just waking myself up,” he said, before answering my many questions.

Gloria and I shared our discoveries over lunch at Cerulean, a chic-but-welcoming restaurant and sushi lounge and the last eatery I expected to find here. I loved the basil-soy salmon and the fact that I could pick three sides to go with it. Gloria's favorite was the Asian pear salad.

After lunch, we strolled over to the Billy Sunday Home, which served as the baseball-player-turned-world-renowned-preacher's summer digs. At the Billy Sunday Visitors Center, I learned that in honor of the area's religious history there's even a local baseball team called Blue Laws that plays by 1860s barehanded rules. Ouch.

Nappanee is home to one of our favorite Indiana destinations — Amish Acres. While on previous trips, we took the horse-drawn wagon ride and toured the Amish home, now we go back every year for their wonderful Threshers Dinner. That's what they call the family-style spread they put before you in the Restaurant Barn.

We also like to see what's on stage at the Round Barn Theatre. For more than 20 years, Amish Acres has presented a very fun show called "Plain & Fancy," which is, believe it or not, a musical about Amish life that premiered on Broadway in 1955. We've seen it a few times, but we've also gotten a look at other great American musicals that the theater performs, with the same professional company, in repertory.

After a refreshing night at The Inn at Amish Acres, we headed further north, armed with a driving tour CD for the Elkhart County 90-mile Heritage Trail. We'd been to Shipshewana, home of the legendary flea market, and Middlebury, home to Das Dutchman Essenhaus restaurant (one of my life's ambitions is to try every one of the 29 kinds of homemade pie). But having a knowledgeable narrator for this trip made for an even richer experience. Gloria was thrilled that the tour took us to The Old Bag Factory, the Goshen historic building that now houses antique and specialty shops. I'm just glad our path led to the door of Olympia Candy Kitchen in Goshen, where we stocked up on caramels and chocolate butter creams — few of which survived the drive to South Bend.

There, I satisfied my appreciation for history at the same time Gloria satisfied her fascination with interior decoration and architecture. The Center for History has fascinating exhibits inside — among other things, it's the national repository for all things related to the All-American Girls Professional Baseball League, the one celebrated in the movie, "A League of Their Own," which was partially filmed in Indiana. But what we really wanted to see was Copshaholm, the 38-room mansion, built in 1895-96 for industrialist J.D. Oliver and his family. The Olivers made their fortune from their plow designs, but you don't have to care much about farming to appreciate this magnificent place.

Speaking of magnificent, Gloria surprised me with a pair of fifth row tickets to B.B. King's concert. Not only did she get the tickets for King's annual appearance at the Star Plaza Theatre in Merrillville, but she booked us a room at the adjacent Radisson.

"I thought we'd add another day to the trip," she said, reminding me — as if I needed reminding — that this is a woman who knows me, through-and-through.

I love the blues. And B.B. King is as good as it gets. But even without the concert, the extra day at the Radisson would have been perfect. It not only has good restaurants and a nice indoor pool, but also a comfortable bar with great live music, a putting green to practice my short game and a comedy club featuring nationally touring comedians.

"Maybe," I said to Gloria, "we should stay another day."

You know, there are some big plusses to being retired.

CAPTURING BUTTERFLIES... AND MEMORIES

BY LINDA PERRY

I knew Jack would be resistant to the idea of a day with the butterflies. After 30 years of marriage to the man, I've learned that Jack is resistant to every idea at first. So when I plan weekend getaways that have something a little unusual in the mix, I've learned how to do what our daughter — who works for a marketing company in Evansville — calls “packaging.”

In this case, I told Jack about the parts of the package that would appeal most to him. For the rest, I just said we were going to be “eco-tourists” and left it at that.

Our first stop for the weekend was calculated to get complete buy-in from Jack. You see, the last time our friends, the Blankenships, visited, they gave us a bottle of Oak Hill Winery's Swayzee red. Jack loved it, pointing out its “woody earthiness” — he's more of an aficionado than I am. When I asked our guests where I could buy more, they told me that the only place was at the winery itself, in the small town of Converse, between Kokomo and Marion.

Perfect. Jack was charmed by the small local winery, housed in an 1895 carriage house. He happily grilled the proprietor with questions and learned facts that I knew would come up at our next cocktail party (Apparently, it takes about 375 grapes to make a bottle of wine. Who knew?). And I was delighted to find that just about every Oak Hill wine is less than $10 a bottle. ►

FOR TODAY?”

“YOU’LL SEE,” I SAID.

Call us antisocial, but sometimes the highlight of a trip for Jack and me is finding an idyllic spot, taking out whatever books we are reading and just relaxing. In Huntington, we found such a spot — Sunken Gardens. Stone stairways took us down into an old quarry, now repurposed with walkways, bridges and a lovely pond. A portion is called the Shakespeare Gardens because it features plants mentioned in the Bard’s plays. Absolutely charming.

Our evening destination was North Manchester, but we took a detour through Van Buren because Jack had learned that the annual Popcorn Festival was going on this weekend. He’s a sucker for local color and smiled as we watched the parade. Sharing his big bag of popcorn, direct from the Weaver Popcorn factory just down the road, he said, “This is fun,” with his mouth full, of course.

Our last stop of the day was North Manchester’s Fruitt Basket Inn, which, technically, is a bed and breakfast — although this time we didn’t have to wait until morning to be fed. Sharon and Randy Fruitt, the owners, invited all the guests (and, it seems, half the neighborhood) to a porch picnic dinner that included brats, hot dogs, baked beans, fruit salad and plenty of desserts. Yum!

The occasion was North Manchester’s annual FunFest street festival, which included a massive classic car show. We took a slow walk down Main Street as the sun set and the crowd grew, stopping to admire the vintage vehicles. We even tried to win at the annual Corvette auction but it wasn’t our lucky day.

Okay, maybe it was. The giant slabs of free watermelon being served by the bank tasted great. The band on the grandstand inspired Jack to twirl me during a rendition of “C.C. Rider.” And I was reminded yet again that I’m crazy about this guy I married.

In the morning, over a homemade omelet and pancakes in the Fruitt Basket dining room, Jack asked, “Okay, what’s on the schedule for today?”

“You’ll see,” I said.

I got the idea last year when we visited the annual butterfly exhibit at White River Gardens in Indianapolis. While there, I overheard two women talking about an annual butterfly count. Some quick internet research led me to Salomon Farm Park in Fort Wayne. Turns out that, each year, the North American Butterfly Association checks the migratory patterns and environmental impact of butterflies and moths at select locations. One method of measure is to invite people, experienced or not, to catch, identify, count and release them. I thought it sounded like fun — kind of like hunting but without the carnage.

Once at Salomon Farm Park, an outdoor education coordinator from Fort Wayne Parks and Recreation was there to instruct us and provide guidebooks and nets. Jack looked at me skeptically.

He remained wary until he caught one (it was, we learned, a Pearl Crescent). Shortly after releasing it, he caught another. Soon he was blazing a trail through the tall grass, focused so intently that I had to laugh to myself.

Two hours later, while I was finishing my book, he returned from the hunt — sweaty, exhausted and with plans to return next year.

I drove home. He slept like a baby.

A STRESS REDUCING
weekend

By Chip Tudor

Brad and Nikki were seeking wellness and relaxation after a busy workweek. So with overnight bags packed, they embarked on a healthy weekend getaway that was near Indianapolis, yet off the beaten path.

Historical Setting With Unique Style

As they drove along the backroads of Indiana, the peaceful scenery helped them unwind. And when they pulled into Zionsville, it was like stepping back in time.

Established in 1852, the town is rich in history and full of present day character. From the red brick Main Street, to the period lamp post street lights, to the warmth and charm of the people, downtown Zionsville overflows with cheerful personality. Although only 15 minutes from downtown Indianapolis, it was like entering an era where sense of community is rolled out like a giant welcome mat.

More than 50 businesses line Main Street, offering an eclectic assortment of shopping. In a day of malls and superstores, it was refreshingly different. A uniqueness that Sandy Rogers, owner of Butler's Pantry, described as "the un-mall that focuses on uniqueness and customer service."

Zionsville's antique, clothing, accessories and jewelry stores along with art galleries and restaurants — including the nationally recognized Brick Street Inn — offered a distinctive experience. The Village Parfumerie features hundreds of natural essences, and their employees assist you in creating a personalized fragrance. Lilly's Boutique Gallery boasts the largest wearable art collection in the Midwest and showcases award-winning artists from around the world.

Brad and Nikki stopped in The Sanctuary for lunch. Once inside, they were immediately embraced by an overwhelming sense of peace and serenity. Originally built as a church in 1854, The Sanctuary is now the art gallery for internationally acclaimed and local Zionsville artist, Nancy Noël. Painstakingly restored to its Victorian architecture featuring 25-foot ceilings, wood floors and stain glass windows, it displays 40 years worth of Nancy's art. The huge, lifelike portraits of children and angels hanging high on the walls promote a sense of safekeeping, like protectors of those below.

Connected to the gallery is an intimate cafe with coffee bar and seating. Finding a cozy nook, the couple nibbled on cheese and crackers produced at Traders Point Creamery, an organic farm just south of town, then lunched on tasty grilled chicken salads.

Historic Restoration With Wellness and Elegance

From Zionsville, Brad and Nikki headed to the Old Northside neighborhood of downtown Indianapolis to check in at The Villa Inn. Built in 1906 and modeled after a Florentine castle, it maintains the authentic look of its historical Italian origins, yet with all the amenities of a modern lifestyle.

Boasting six rooms, each is decorated with an individual theme, combining a sense of exclusivity and privacy with convenience and comfort. After settling in, the couple traveled to Fishers Train Station for an evening ride on the Hamiltonian Dinner Train.

“It was like entering an era where sense of community is rolled out like a giant welcome mat.”

On Track With Indiana's Past

At Fishers station they boarded the Nickel Plate Railroad, which would take them through Noblesville and Cicero to their final destination in Atlanta. A central means of transportation in the early 1900s, today the Nickel Plate Railroad maintains an important link to a bygone era.

Brad and Nikki munched on appetizers and sipped drinks as the enthusiastic, volunteer conductor, dressed in authentic uniform, engaged them with interesting stories of train lore.

Authentic Style With Modern Luxury

Returning to The Villa Inn, the couple enjoyed a pampered evening in the plush comfort of their Mediterranean-themed room. In the morning, they ate a breakfast of omelets, fruit, coffee, orange juice, bran muffins and cereal. Brad opted for a Pilates session in the gym led by a full-time, personal trainer while Nikki chose an aromatherapy enzyme facial in the spa. They met to relax for a while on the rooftop terrace then enjoyed lunch on the patio.

With their retreat drawing to a close, Brad finished with a deep tissue massage while Nikki enjoyed a manicure and pedicure in the salon. Rested and rejuvenated, they returned home ready for another busy week.

Adventure

Tucked away treasures
for outdoor enthusiasts

By Greg Seiter

As carefree bachelors in their late 20s, Ray and Joel made a habit of getting together to explore Indiana. In more recent times, those spontaneous adventures, which often included activities such as golfing, boating and camping, had become less frequent since the lifelong friends were now separated by hundreds of miles.

Nevertheless, when they did find time to get together, their enthusiasm was unmatched.

On one particular spring morning, only the beaming sun above was brighter than their level of excitement as the two traveled westbound from Indianapolis on Interstate 70. This road trip, unlike any other they had shared, would serve as a key to unlocking unexplored treasures tucked away in Western Indiana.

A modest gatehouse greeted Ray and Joel as they arrived at their first stop of the day — Cagles Mill Lake and the Lieber State Recreation Area near Cloverdale. Ray commented on how easily accessible the area was from I-70 via State Road 243, but Joel was more interested in the pre-packed sandwiches, chips and drinks that were awaiting the travelers as they navigated a peacefully winding road that led them to a well-shaded picnic spot. A secluded hilltop shelter near the Covered Bridge Nature Trail proved to be a pleasant resting spot.

While Ray elected to spend a few moments after lunch reading about Cagles Mill Lake, also locally known as Cataract Lake, Joel pursued a quick drive down the road to the wide open lake area itself, which was adorned with a small fishing pier, boat launch area and semi-private beach.

The two then visited Cataract Falls, which is, by volume, the largest waterfall in Indiana. Impressive rock walls and thick timber engulfed both the upper falls as well as the smaller, but equally impressive, lower falls drop-off.

From there, it was back to the interstate for a 30-minute drive west to Terre Haute where a tee time awaited the friends at Hulman Links Golf Course.

Though voted the sixth toughest public golf course in the state by Indiana Business Magazine in 2006, Ray and Joel both found Hulman Links to be surprisingly inviting, especially with legitimate birdie opportunities on the first two holes. However, the only birdies to be had by the pair on that particular day would prove to be those cautiously watching from the tree limbs above.

In fact, while Joel quickly found himself down two golf balls thanks to a well-positioned water hazard on the third hole, Ray struggled equally on the 395-yard hole No. 7 with a couple of his own water-seeking shots.

At the tail end of what locals often refer to as “Amen Corner” — holes No. 10, No. 11 and No. 12 — the duo discovered what was probably their favorite hole of the course when they came upon the tree-lined par 4 No. 12 that featured left side bunkers and a ravine between the fairway and green.

By the time they reached the 415-yard 18th hole tee box, Joel had reluctantly conceded defeat and though his final drive of the day missed the fairway by at least 50 yards, he smiled as Ray also sent his drive deep into the rough, some 20 yards behind Joel’s.

From Hulman Links, Ray and Joel passed weathered barns and quaint farm houses along quiet country roads before ultimately discovering their tranquil evening destination, The Canyon camping area just down the road a bit from the town of Waveland and nearly a stone’s throw from Clements Canoes Outdoor Center.

Immediately to the right of the area’s camp store and registration office, there stood an inviting covered bridge — Deer’s Mill Bridge, which was built in 1878 — that Ray and Joel explored by foot before unpacking for the night.

Their cabin — the Hideaway Cabin Overlook — was a stilt-supported, one-story single-room structure that was easily within walking distance of the bridge and less than 200 yards from Sugar Creek.

With ground-level steps that led up to a screened-in porch and inviting bench swing, the simply decorated cabin allowed for a truly relaxing overnight stay in the wilderness.

Ray was first to rise the next morning and had already prepared a hearty breakfast of bacon and scrambled eggs on the grill by the time Joel saw daylight.

With the car loaded and after checking out, they strolled across Deer's Mill Bridge to Clements Canoes Outdoor Center and carefully examined the menu options available for canoe, kayak and tube trips on Sugar Creek before ultimately selecting the 15-mile Upper Whitewater Trip.

Once launched upriver in Crawfordsville, Ray and Joel were overcome by the natural beauty of the seemingly clear waters they were navigating.

Fallen trees lined the banks of the river as the two paddled between narrow channels, around and over large rocks, along shale bluffs and through Pine Hills Nature Preserve.

With the sun at their backs and only the hint of a slight breeze, the friends opted to simply float along the shallow waters in order to observe wildlife that included Canadian Geese, ducks, squirrels, a lonely crane, curious fish and even a majestic bald eagle as it passed overhead.

After nearly three hours of nature watching, their first experience on Sugar Creek came to an end when they secured their craft on the rocky terrain at Clements canoe livery.

Few words were spoken during the commute back to Indianapolis, undoubtedly due in part to fatigue, and most certainly out of an appreciation of all they had experienced.

It had truly been a carefree outdoor adventure in undiscovered territory for two old friends.

Ridge Winery Tasting Room

Four friends,
three days,
two nights
and one goal

Desperately

By Barbara E. Cohen

Mmmmm!

Zippering along Interstate 74 toward Batesville, I'm on my way to relax with three college friends. As the miles slip by, I disconnect from my everyday life, eager to rediscover my old self in new places.

Day 1: Unwind

At the Stonebridge Inn & Spa, I'm whisked off to the Garden Spa Suite. With its panoramic views of the gardens from the bedroom windows and a two-person 10-jet whirlpool bath, my room is like a Napa style retreat.

Joining my friends in the sunny terrace room, we toast the days ahead with a glass of the inn's restorative cucumber elixir – spring water subtly flavored with cucumber slices. My stressful life begins to feel like ancient history with a dip in the outdoor pool before a massage.

We ease into the afternoon's activities, if you can call lounging around the pool snacking on fresh fruit an "activity." In the Sanctuary oasis area, a hot stone massage removes any residual muscle tension, while reiki and chakra balance energy and work to restore calmness and put my mind and body into perfect balance.

After dinner, the evening winds down in the Rookwood tiled living room, where we chatter away over cups of tea and snacks from the "make yourself at home" snack bar. Back in my room, I'm soon fast asleep thanks to the massage and chamomile tea.

Seeking Soothing

Day 2: Flights of fancy

After a made-to-order breakfast in the Stonebridge's Tuscan style breakfast nook and a bracing steam shower, we set off to explore the Indiana Wine Trail.

First stop is Ertel Cellars Winery, where winemaker Brian Ahaus introduces us to his production facility. From the full-bodied fruit wines to the nouveau style Foch, we work up an appetite for lunch in the barn-like dining room. We sample the fish, beef, pork and chicken entrées after a round of fresh crab cakes and salads, accompanied by glasses of our favorite wines from the morning's tasting. Less indulgent but just as tasty lunches are also available to carry out to the vineyard's shaded picnic area.

Following dessert, we continue on the trail of Indiana's wine tradition. Driving through small towns and past quaint farms, we come to Switzerland County, where Indiana's first vineyards flourished. Emerging from the hilly farmland, we rapidly descend to the Ohio River shoreline – and our next destination.

At the Ridge Winery Tasting Room, we're greeted by winemaker Tom Demaree, who has been making wine in the area for two decades. His first specialty was a wild cherry wine he made from locally grown fruit.

Today, the Ridge Winery operates a tasting room along a bend of the Ohio River. The deck provides sweeping views of river traffic, where we sit sampling Demaree's wares. Black Jack, a bracing combination of applejack and blackberry wine, finds favor, as does the original wild cherry wine. We stock up on our favorites to take home before exploring Vevay.

This sleepy rivertown has undergone a renaissance, with retail shops, art galleries and eateries springing up along the main thoroughfares.

At Signatures of Switzerland County, the walls and aisles are lined with works by more than 60 local painters, potters, glassblowers and woodworkers.

Suitably restored with shopping therapy, our caravan makes the short drive along the Ohio River to the Belterra Casino Resort & Spa. I'm looking forward to trying my hand at the gaming tables after a world-class dinner at Jeff Ruby's Steakhouse.

Our server knows our needs before we do, recommending just the right salads, sides and wines to accompany our grilled-to-perfection steaks. Though we protest a little, we devour a tasty platter of desserts and coffees that provide a perfect end to the meal. Fully indulged, we head to the casino to consort with Lady Luck before calling it a night.

Day 3: Eat, drink, mud, woman

Having wine and dined sumptuously for two days, we start our last day together with a light breakfast and a round of golf. First, we share a chipping lesson with a golf pro. Then we challenge ourselves on the Belterra's Tom Fazio-designed links, ranked one of the top 10 Best New Upscale Public Courses in America by "Golf Digest."

Finally, the trip winds down with an afternoon of pampering at the Belterra Spa. The full Princess Package includes a Moors Mud bath in a hydrotherapy tub, Swedish massage, paraffin facial, manicure, pedicure, shampoo and style.

Unwinding at the Spa!

Hillenbrand Suite at Stonebridge Inn & Spa

We munched on a platter of fresh cheeses and in-season fruits between appointments while lounging around the hot tub in plush terry robes. The all-organic Moors Mud – a sticky greenish-brown French clay and water mixture – leaves my skin smooth from the combination of heat wrap and hydrotherapy. A dizzying array of nail polishes provides colors a rainbow never imagined, and five hours later we emerge like butterflies from their cocoons.

All too soon, we're checking out and promising to get together like this more often. We've learned a valuable lesson: We can "get away from it all" right here in Indiana, where world-class indulgences reside a stone's throw from home.

Thanks for the Memories!

A lifetime of memories made on our summer vacation.

Subject: Glad We Came!
To: <Pat.Koch@HolidayWorld.com>

Dear Mrs. Koch,

My family really enjoyed our visit to Holiday World & Splashin' Safari this summer. The kids are back in school, but they're still talking about it. We rented a cabin at Lake Rudolph Campground & R.V. Resort — the perfect base for trips to your park as well as exploring the surrounding region. My wife loved that the cabin was spotless when we arrived, just like the amusement park. I loved the chance to take the kids camping. Our daughter — who selected our destination in honor of turning 16 this summer — made a scrapbook of summer highlights, which includes many pages devoted to the water rides and roller coasters. Our son came home from school today with an essay in which he raves about Holiday World. My parents have family photos going back to when you were called Santa Claus Land, and we're definitely keeping the family tradition alive for our kids.

Sincerely, Fred Friendly

▲ When my dad got off The Voyage roller-coaster, he said he'd never felt so old and so young at the same time!

LINCOLN BOYHOOD NATIONAL MEMORIAL
LINCOLN CITY, INDIANA
A HOME IN THE WOODS

In December 1816, Thomas Lincoln moved his family from Kentucky to Spencer County, Indiana. Within weeks neighbors helped them build a sturdy log cabin. Abraham lived here for fourteen years. Today, the Lincoln Living Historical Farm stands on the site where the Lincoln family carved "a home in the woods."

Dear Sis,
I'm glad I took that ant history class after we read "The Davinci code." The kids and I got the joke in the Venus de Milo spoof at cMoe, of course now I'm begging Fred that we need a trip to Paris so I can see everything for myself at the Louvre Museum, right?!

Our cabin was a lot nicer than Lincoln's!

Good Work

What I did on my summer vacation
by: Freddie Friendly

My sister turned 16 in July, so she picked Holiday World & Splashin' Safari for our summer vacation, which was totally fun. I liked the free drinks and being big enough to ride the coasters. I also saw buffalo and then ate a buffalo burger, but I'm pretty sure it wasn't from the one I fed. At the zoo, we saw a hippo and a giraffe, and got to feed the otters, Splash and Splash.

President Lincoln lived close so he must have liked going there. Our cabin was a lot nicer than his, but I had to share a loft with my sister.

I thought museums were for learning, but this one was fun. At the Quack Factory, my sister screamed when I got her sneakers wet. I also got her wet mining for minerals at the campground and at the water park until my parents made me quit.

This giraffe looks like she has false eyelashes!

CELEBRATING
OF THE GREATEST
AMERICAN PRESIDENT

Colorful ways to spend your days

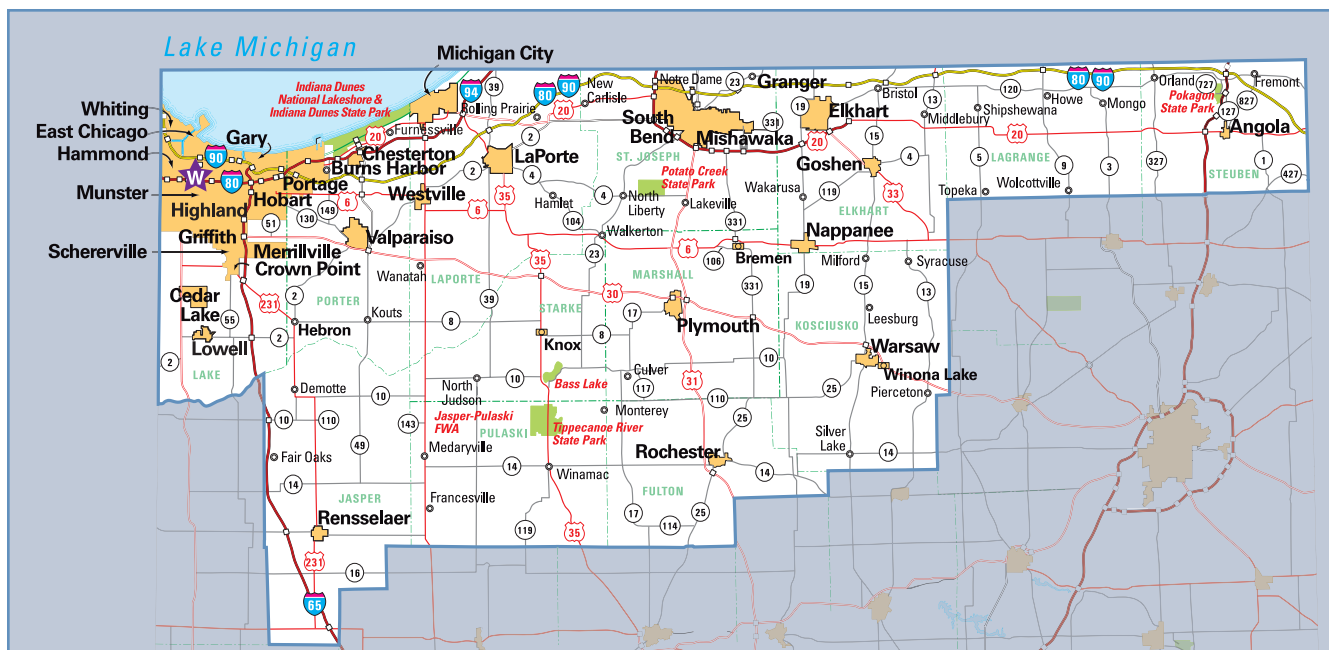

Take an endless supply of golden sand, true-blue berries, acres of rolling greens and a bite of creamy brown chocolate. Top it off with something red or white, and you'll sample Northern Indiana's many hues.

Agritourism: Celebrate Mother Nature and friends

There's life beyond individually wrapped cheese slices at Yoder's Meat & Cheese Company (Shipshewana). This family-owned and -operated business offers more than 75 kinds of cheese products and 100-plus cuts of meat. The American Countryside Farmer's Market (Elkhart) combines freshness and fun. At more than 51,000 square feet, the two-story red barn offers fresh meat, fish and baked goods, along with cooking classes. With crisp apples and soft doughnuts, County Line Orchard (Hobart) fills your tummy. Meet animals at the Kids Farm, pick apples and shop the store.

Destination Restaurants & Lodging: Come hungry, leave relaxed

At Tippecanoe Place Restaurant (South Bend), the decor is as delicious as the food. Completed in 1889, the former home now serves the area as a fine restaurant. Fill the wait between Thanksgiving dinners with a trip to Das Durchman Essenhaus (Middlebury). Known for its Amish and Mennonite homestyle cooking, this area favorite features broasted chicken, baked steak and made-from-scratch noodles. The Blue Chip Casino and Hotel (Michigan City) provides the perfect place to take a break after you've tried your luck at the games. Take the indoor walkway from the casino to the hotel. Then, enjoy a leisurely meal or a quick bite at one of several restaurants, including Nelson's Deli, William B's Steakhouse or Rocks Lounge.

Outdoor Recreation: Play outside all year long

You won't mind some sand in your picnic basket when you explore the Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore (Porter). Stretching along 15 miles of the Lake Michigan shore, this beautiful beach area is also home to marshes, rivers and forests. Pokagon State Park (Angola) offers warm weather fun, such as camping, fishing and boating. On winter weekends, visitors can zoom down the park's quarter mile toboggan track. For a slightly more relaxed pace, tee off at The Course at Aberdeen (Valparaiso). Cut from a former horse farm, the 18-hole course's tees, fairways and greens are all bent grass.

Girlfriend Getaway: Shopping, sipping and sampling

At The Outlet Shoppes at Fremont, you'll find big bargains and delightful merchandise at a variety of stores including Coach and Jones New York. And since you wouldn't buy a dress without trying it on, why buy a bottle of wine without tasting it? Pam and Larry Sarek invite you to do some tasting at Sarek Winery (Fremont). Its list includes whites, reds and other specialties. Another taste bud treat most women can't live without: chocolate. Take a factory and museum tour at South Bend Chocolate Company's Museum (South Bend). Dozens of diet busters are available, including pecan patties and mint meltaways.

Family Fun: A "wow" is guaranteed

What weighs as much as a Volkswagen Beetle and has "feathers"? A horse, of course. More specifically, the kind of horse you'll find at Great American Clydesdales (Orland). Enjoy more animals at Washington Park Zoo (Michigan City), home to more than 220 animals of 90 different species. Exhibits include the Lion House, the Rotary Castle Building and the Winged Wonders Exhibit. Leave that white shirt at home when you bring the crew to the Marshall County Blueberry Festival (Plymouth). Naturally, this annual Labor Day weekend celebration offers plenty of blueberry treats including blueberry pie, ice cream and even blueberry brats.

EAST

A taste of history, a smattering of sweets and a big dollop of fun

What's faster: a thoroughbred or a kid on a marshmallow buzz? What's smoother: a luxury automobile or gourmet chocolates? What's more colorful: stained glass or a vice president's past? You'll find the answers in Eastern Indiana.

Arts and Culture: Hard work celebrated

At the Dan Quayle Center/United States Vice Presidential Museum (Huntington), learn more about the men who shoulder the responsibility of being America's second in command, including the five from Indiana. Located on 40 acres, Minnetrista (Muncie) includes a museum and cultural center, a historic home, art, a nature area and beautiful gardens. Exhibits and programs here focus on nature, history, gardens and art. There's something innately interesting about finding out how something is made, especially when it's as beautiful as glass at Kokomo Opalescent Glass. Tour the oldest manufacturer of opalescent and cathedral stained glass in the world, where they can make more than 22,000 color, density and texture combinations.

Destination Restaurants and Lodging: Bits of history between bites

Most restaurants serve food “a la carte.” But Joseph Decuis (Roanoke) has a unique offering: “a la minute.” The menu changes frequently and each dish is prepared individually. Diners can expect seafood, steaks and other specialties with much of the food grown and raised locally. Restaurant patrons can also make reservations at The Inn at Joseph Decuis. Both the inn and restaurant were named for an ancestor of the owner, who was a Revolutionary War veteran. Located along Indiana’s Antique Alley, Palais Royal Café (Centerville) has a menu that changes frequently. Check the board to see which steak, seafood, pasta, chicken, vegetarian and dessert specialties they’re serving. Located in an 1860s home, Palais Royal is named for a dress shop; the decor features the shop’s vintage hat boxes. Another vintage structure that’s now an eatery: Old #3 Firehouse Cafe (Fort Wayne). It’s a cafe and museum where you can see firefighting artifacts on the first floor, then head to the second floor to enjoy menu items as Hook and Ladder, Trumpet and Chief.

Outdoor Recreation: History, hooves and hikes

During the War of 1812, an important battle raged on Indiana soil. Mississinewa 1812 (Marion), an annual living history event, brings the sights, sounds and even smells of that time to the 21st century. Walk through a military encampment, a Native American village and a rivertown. In the village and rivertown, watch traditional craftsmen and sample hearty 1812 food. Indiana has a great destination for horse racing enthusiasts: Hoosier Park (Anderson). During warmer months, enjoy harness and thoroughbred racing. Grab some fresh air at Whitewater Memorial State Park (Liberty). This picturesque place features 200-acre Whitewater Lake, access to Brookville Lake, hiking trails, a saddlebarn with escorted rides, seasonal interpretive naturalist services, camping, boat rental and other opportunities for outdoor fun.

Girlfriend Getaways: Time to say “ahhhhh”

Talk about aging gracefully. Thanks to caring citizens, the Paramount Theatre Centre and Ballroom (Anderson) has been restored to its glory days of the 1920s. Bringing the outdoors in with its twinkling ceiling lights, terra cotta roof and alabaster balconies, the Paramount is one of the few “atmospheric” theaters still in existence. Gospel recording artists Bill and Gloria Gaither invite you to Gaither Family Resources (Alexandria). Here, life centers offer gifts, original artwork, home decor items and books. Relax and dine at the Latte Café. Women know the difference between kid’s chocolate and the “good stuff.” Some of the best can be found at Ghyslain Chocolatier (Union City). Take a tour and enjoy these works of edible, hand-painted art.

Family Fun: Cool rides, a long slide and tasty treats

A crumb-free minivan may feel like a stylish auto, but not compared to the 120 classic vintage, antique and special interest cars at the Auburn Cord Duesenberg Museum (Auburn). This lavish art deco museum, listed on the National Register of Historic Places, features eight galleries and The Deusy Shop. Plenty of jumping, splashing and investigating awaits at Science Central (Fort Wayne). At this hands-on museum, a child can make a bubble as big as he or she is, jump on the moon (sort of), find out how many gallons of water are in his or her body, predict the weather and zip down a two-story slide. Mark your calendar for s'more fun at the Marshmallow Festival (Ligonier). Profiled on the Food Network's "All American Festivals," this Labor Day weekend festival features marshmallow recipe contests, crafts and live entertainment.

Science Central,

MUNCIE... We're Having a Ball!

One visit to our community, rich with history, recreation and festivals, will have you coming back for more. Located on the southeast side of Muncie, the AMA's National Model Aviation Museum displays more than 200 years of aeromodeling history. From early pull-string helicopters to modern ducted-fan jet aircraft, the museum traces the developmental changes that have occurred in all aspects of model aviation.

Ball State University offers NCAA Division I and MAC athletics, world-class performances and entertainment open to the public in Sursa Performance Hall and Emens Auditorium, a vibrant residential campus, challenging, supportive academic environment, nationally recognized programs, immersive learning experiences, innovative technology and expert faculty.

Minnetrista, a 40-acre campus offers dynamic community activities that honor and reflect the rich heritage of the region. A short walk away is the historic downtown district, featuring the arts, eateries and an award-winning children's museum. From downtown, take a stroll along our beautiful greenway, which also takes you to nearby Prairie Creek Reservoir that offers pontoon rental, horse trails, camping, fishing and more.

Indiana Artisan
150 West Market Street, Suite 618
Indianapolis, IN 46204
317.607.8715
IndianaArtisan.org

Indiana Artisan is the Hoosier state's finest artists, growers and craftsmen and the premier work they create.

INDIANA ARTISAN

Fine works of Hoosier art and food

Indiana Artisan is craftsmanship. It is fine oils and fine wines, handmade soaps and hand-turned wood bowls. It is Lake Michigan artists, Ohio River Valley craftsmen, rural popcorn growers and small-town chocolatiers. Indiana Artisan is the work of the Hoosier state's best craftspeople, from specialty jewelry makers to specialty cheese makers, and from the hands of careful beekeepers to those of caring weavers. Indiana's heritage in glass, musical instruments, stoneware, woodwork, fine wines, artisanal cheeses, candies, brandies and more is defined through this collaboration bringing the artisans and their art, craft and food together—in stores and on trails crisscrossing the state.

Go shopping to find the perfect piece of local art. Stop to savor a fresh slice of homemade pie. Visit a potter's studio and see a masterpiece created. Meet the artisans and share their stories. You'll leave with something of value to you, an experience as unique and rewarding as the art or food itself. Your journey begins at www.IndianaArtisan.org.

CENTRAL

Unlimited adventure in the big city — and beyond

In Central Indiana, your pace can go from high-energy to relaxing in a matter of minutes. Indoors or out, with or without kids, you're sure to find plenty of fun filled activities that seem to be made just for you.

Arts and Culture: Immerse yourself in history

Be a pioneer at Conner Prairie (Fishers), where you experience 1800s life. Play historic games, attend a one-room schoolhouse or help build a wigwam. A stroll along the canal in downtown Indianapolis leads you to inspiring war memorials. The Congressional Medal of Honor Memorial pays tribute to those who have received America's highest honor for military valor; the USS Indianapolis National Memorial honors those who perished when the cruiser sank in 1945. The Indiana Historical Society (Indianapolis) joins the nation in celebrating the 200th birthday of one-time Indiana resident Abraham Lincoln, and is home to an incredible collection of Lincoln-related photographs, newspapers, prints and letters.

Agritourism: Fairly fabulous fun

Celebrate high achieving grapes by following the Indy Wine Trail (Indianapolis, Plainfield, Carmel, Bargersville and Columbus). Each winery offers a different experience; you can tour vineyards, hear the stories of winery owners and even make a wine of your own! School seems to start earlier every year, but you can't rush fabulous fall produce. You'll find acres of it at Stuckey Farm in Sheridan. Pick your own apples, watch cider being made and take a tractor-pulled ride to the 13-acre pumpkin patch. The country market offers more treats. Even the slickest of city folk fall in love with rural life during Indiana's animal, activity and food filled fairs. The Hendricks County Fair (Danville) brings old-fashioned fair fun to the new Hendricks County 4-H Fairgrounds and Complex Center (Danville). This July fair is a great place to get warmed up for the granddaddy of them all: the Indiana State Fair (Indianapolis) in August. With rides, animals, live entertainment, exhibits and all that fabulous food, it's no wonder it takes so many days to fit it all in.

Outdoor Recreation: Toss in a little indoor fun, too

Minutes from downtown, you'll find Fort Harrison State Park (Indianapolis). With walking and jogging trails, picnic sites, a saddlebarn, fishing access to Fall Creek, cross-country skiing and a sledding hill, any time is a great time to visit. Prefer your landscape manicured? Tee off at The Fort Golf Resort. Post Road Recreation Center (Indianapolis), a year-round, five-acre amusement complex, features one indoor and two outdoor go-kart tracks, miniature golf, bumper cars and an arcade. Ready to swim, but the weather isn't cooperating? Indy Island at Raymond Park (Indianapolis) can accommodate you. Indoors, you'll find a three-lane lap pool and hot tub, a 150-foot spiral slide and a just-for-playing pool with a small slide, geysers and spray features. Outdoor activities include wetlands, prairie lands, baseball fields and outdoor basketball courts.

Girlfriend Getaways: Sensory overload (in a good way)

Preserve your memories in style and comfort at Crop-A-Doodle-Do (Arcadia). Located in a renovated 1865 farmhouse on 100 acres, this spa and scrapbook retreat offers a scrapbooking room, massages, pedicures, manicures and other services. Still feeling creative? At Les Studio des Parfums (Atlanta), a franchise from France, a master perfumer helps you with a wide selection of fragrant oils to create your own signature scent. More than 100,000 combinations are available. What's a girlfriend getaway without shopping? Stroll Metropolis (Plainfield), a charming outdoor mall offering more than 60 shopping, dining and entertainment options. Catch some fresh air as you explore this unique collection of stores. Then, put your feet up at the dining and entertainment venues.

Family Fun: In and out of the sun

There's a perfect age to visit the Indianapolis Zoo: somewhere between one and 100. Everyone can't help but be amazed by the zoo's residents and the spectacular ways they're presented. Watch dolphins from an underwater viewing dome. Touch sharks at the newly renovated Oceans exhibit. Walk among fluttering butterflies from March to September at White River Gardens, adjacent to the zoo. Explore the zoo by train to view the elephants, giraffes and more. At The Children's Museum of Indianapolis, the "wild things" may be your own offspring buzzing through the museum's five levels. They can dig for dinosaur bones, ride a carousel, tour an Egyptian tomb and play for hours. And, as you wind your way up and down the museum, you'll have an ever-changing perspective of "Fireworks of Glass" by artist Dale Chihuly. Spread on the sunscreen to enjoy a full day of outdoor fun at Splash Island (Plainfield). Three waterslides, kiddie slides, water jets, a gentle winding river and other H₂O-based activities equal a great day. Serious swimmers can hit the six-lane competition pool with an attached diving well; serious tanners will enjoy the spacious deck and grassy areas.

Indianapolis Zoo, Indianapolis

"This is my Indy..."

What's yours?"

When my friends come to Indianapolis, the first question they ask is, "What is there to do in Indy?" and that gives me the opportunity to serve up a little hometown pride. For starters, they can walk or bike to Mass Ave. It's a cultural district located in the heart of our busy downtown. It has cool art galleries, local restaurants and unique shops. Yeah, I love the Circle City. It's my Indy. What's yours?

INDIANAPOLIS MOTOR SPEEDWAY HALL OF FAME MUSEUM

Celebrating a Hoosier Tradition From Nearly a Century Ago

On the grounds of the famous Indianapolis Motor Speedway is one of the most highly visible museums in the world devoted to automobiles and auto racing. The Indianapolis Motor Speedway Hall of Fame Museum and Speedway grounds hold the designation of National Historic Landmarks. Approximately 75 vehicles are on display at all times, including The Marmon "Wasp," which won the first Indianapolis 500 in 1911, along with numerous other winning cars and priceless memorabilia. View cars built in Indianapolis, including the Stutz, Cole, Marmon, National and Duesenberg, as well as historic photographs, trophies and helmets. The Tony Hulman Theater offers a free, exciting 20-minute film highlighting the track's history. The Official Trackside Gift Shop carries a variety of souvenirs. Take a tour bus ride around the 2-1/2-mile oval track with its "Yard of Bricks." Adjacent to the track, the Brickyard Crossing Golf Resort & Inn provides accommodations, banquet and meeting facilities, plus the premier 18-hole championship Brickyard Crossing Golf Course designed by Pete Dye.

WEST

Where “exciting” and “peaceful” work together

In Western Indiana, the countryside is picturesque and the cities are relaxed. Meals are served at a leisurely pace. Even the thrilling roller coasters offer a peaceful lakeside view.

Arts and Culture: Exciting events, awesome artwork and toe-tapping tunes

Hoosier history and lots of fun: that’s the Feast of the Hunters’ Moon (West Lafayette). This recreation of an annual gathering of French and Native Americans features tomahawk-throwing, fife and drum music, a living history village and 18th century entertainment. With more than 800 works, the Art Museum of Greater Lafayette offers several hours worth of exploring. The collection focuses on 19th and 20th century American art. Enjoy an entertaining show and a delightful meal at Myers Dinner Theatre (Hillsboro). The professional theater presents Broadway classics and original works. The menu even changes to match productions.

Agritourism: Quiet little worlds

If your kids are starting to believe the food chain starts at the supermarket, it’s time for a visit to the White Violet Center for Eco-Justice (Saint Mary-of-the-Woods). This ministry of the Sisters of Providence has nearly 350 acres of state certified organic farmland, a berry patch and an orchard. An actual white horse inspired the name for Whyte Horse Winery (Monticello). Although the winery is just a few years old, the owners have collected fine wines for 30 years. You can enjoy wine tasting in a renovated 1886 farmhouse and take home a bottle. In a world of skyscrapers, the folks of Parke County preserve their 31 historic covered bridges and invite you to celebrate them.

Indiana Beach Lake Shafer, Monticello

Travel five easy-to-follow routes to find each one of these picturesque structures, which are listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Destination Restaurants and Lodging: Hearty fare and fresh air

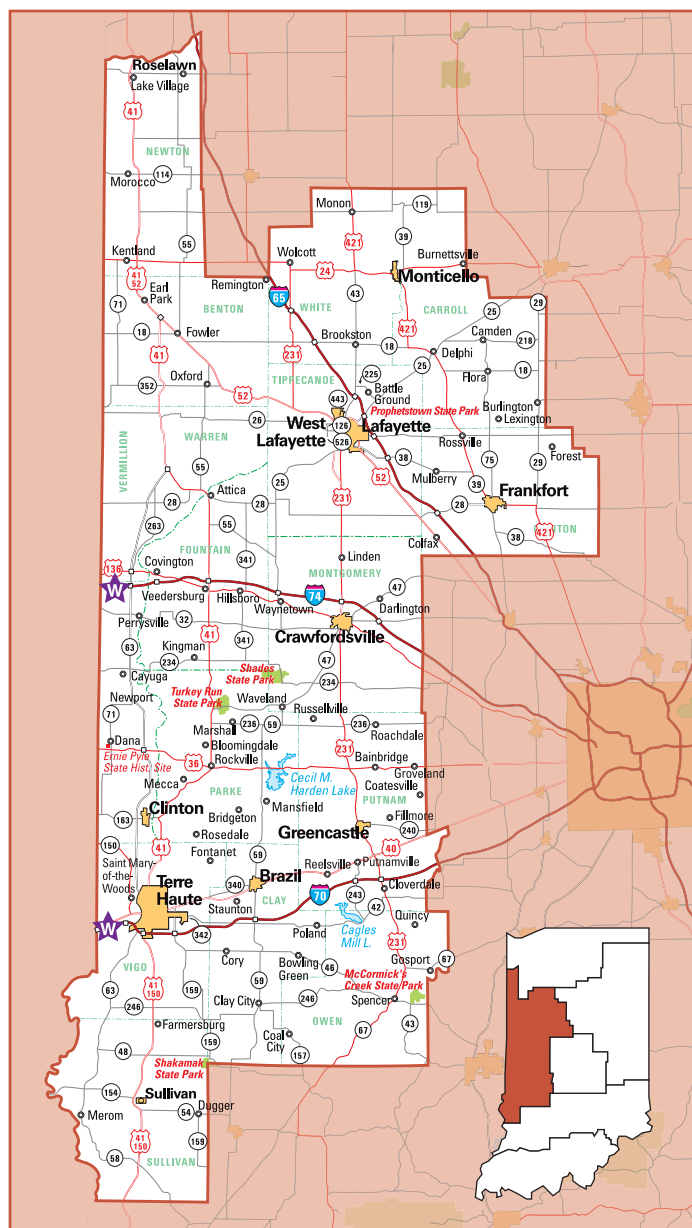

What gives veggies more kid appeal and burgers more pizzazz? Cheese, of course. The people at Fair Oaks Farms™ (Fair Oaks) invite you to try their fresh milk, fine cheese and premium ice cream. You won't be surprised to learn what they're serving at Beef House Restaurant (Covington) — high choice aged beef cooked on an open hearth charcoal broiler. But here's the bonus: the incredible yeast rolls. After a day of exploring the sandstone ravines, aged forests and trails of Turkey Run State Park (Marshall), you could spend the night camping under the stars.

Girlfriend Getaway: Bring the real you

Which reliable girlfriend is always in your pantry? The Clabber Girl, of course. Learn her story at the Clabber Girl Museum (Terre Haute). Want to feel young? Go antiquing. Just make sure your treasure hunt takes you to Crawfordsville, home to three antique malls and other shops. When the girls just need peace, quiet and a place to talk, the Canyon Inn at McCormick's Creek State Park (Spencer) serves as an ideal destination. No makeup is required as you hike past the scenic waterfalls.

Family Fun: Pack the towels!

A day at the lake can be lovely, but when the lake has an amusement park on its shores, that day goes from lovely to lively. Indiana Beach Amusement Resort (Monticello) has more than 30 rides and attractions including five roller coasters, a full Kiddyland, six waterslides, miniature golf and a sand beach swimming area. At Tropicanae Cove Aquatic Center (Lafayette) everyone can find their perfect splash level. Bigger kids can zip down the 299-foot Banana Peel tube slide; little ones can play at Sunfish Bay. The whole crew will love Cattail Crik. At Lake Waveland (Waveland) fish for bass and bluegill; use the ramp for boats and personal watercraft. Then, head back to land to relax at the beach.

LAFAYETTE – WEST LAFAYETTE

A community proud of its heritage, yet still focused on the future; a community perfectly packaged for you.

Historic downtown remains the heart of our ever-growing community. Satisfy your taste buds with handmade candies, quaint coffee shops, a local brewery and the state's oldest drive-in restaurant. Antiques and eclectic shopping also await you.

Purdue University offers a variety of entertainment, including the excitement of Big Ten sporting events. Tour the campus and see the stately red brick architecture, fountains and wide range of trees scattered across the welcoming green spaces.

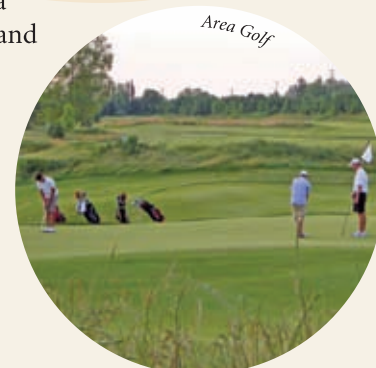

Visit Wolf Park to "Howl with the Wolves" or see how wolves and bison interact at this one of a kind research facility. Other opportunities to enjoy outdoor activities include Riverside Skating Center, Celery Bog Nature Preserve, Clegg Botanical Gardens and hiking the Wabash Heritage Trail.

Columbian Park features Tropicane Cove Family Aquatic Center, a giant playground plus the Columbian Park Zoo. The Zoo is home of over 190 animals representing 79 different species; recent renovations make this a must see. Loeb Stadium, within the park, is home to the annual Colt World Series, a youth baseball tournament held each August which brings players from around the world.

History buffs will want to visit the Tippecanoe Battlefield and Museum or explore Prophetstown State Park. Historic Prophetstown, located within the State Park, offers events throughout the year, a restored prairie, a working 1920s farmstead and a recreated Woodland Indian settlement.

Golf enthusiasts will love our courses, featuring professional designs from Pete Dye and Hale Irwin. Stay and Play packages are available!

SOUTH CENTRAL

An explorer's paradise

How do you define adventure? Is it exploring a cave? Wandering through history? Strapping on water skis? Sampling a new flavor? In South Central Indiana, you'll find dozens of ways to get your adrenaline pumping.

Arts and Culture: Amazing stories

A Broadway favorite or a well-known musician is reason enough to visit Indiana University Auditorium (Bloomington). However, with incredible art and the largest pipe organ in the United States, the building itself is impressive. In 1907, T.C. Steele, one of Indiana's premier artists, moved to Brown County; several other artists followed. After more than 100 years, Brown County remains a thriving artists' community where shops and galleries feature the work of local and Indiana artists and crafters. Steele's home and grounds are now the T.C. Steele State Historic Site. Explore Indiana's "pre-statehood" days at the Vincennes State Historic Sites. Your tour incorporates stops throughout the city, including the Indiana Territory Capitol, the Old State Bank and Fort Knox II.

Agritourism: Tasty treats and inspiring sites

Butter and salt? Old news. Nor Just Popcorn (Edinburgh) produces more than 200 flavors of the crunchy treat, including black cherry cola, vidalia onion ring and vanilla butternut. The popcorn is grown by a local area farmer and is popped fresh in the shop. For more delectable treats, visit Graham Farms Cheese (Elnora). Using milk from small Amish farms and large, modern milking operations, Graham Farms Cheese stresses quality while making your favorites, including natural American cheddar and longhorn style colby. Located along the rolling Ohio River, Madison has retained much of its early rivertown charm. Among its historically significant destinations are elegant mansions, a saddletree factory, a vintage doctor's office and Historic Eleutherian College, a National Underground Railroad site and National Historic Landmark. Antique shops, golf courses and Clifty Falls State Park make Madison a picturesque destination. Lanthier Winery, Madison's oldest winery, Madison Vineyards, with a roomy bed and breakfast, and Thomas Family Winery, located in an 1850s stable and carriage house, enhance your visit.

Destination Restaurants and Lodging: Utopia for taste buds

The buffer is a beautiful concept, especially when it enables you to try all the Amish fare at Black Buggy Amish Restaurant and Bakery (Washington). Try fried chicken, smoked sausage and kraut and a big dessert line up. At Stream Cliff Herb Farm (Commiskey), you'll find hundreds of varieties of herbs, beautiful flowers and display gardens. Those herbs may be best enjoyed at the Twigs & Sprigs Tearoom, where the dill rosemary chicken salad is a favorite. At The Gardens Inn (Bedford), a charming bed and breakfast, you'll end your day with a homemade dessert and start the next with a full breakfast served in your room. Outside, the landscape features wildflowers, wildlife, springs and manicured gardens.

Outdoor Recreation: So many places to splash

Indiana may not be on a coast, but it certainly has no shortage of water. Spreading across 10,750 acres of water surface, Lake Monroe (Bloomington) is Indiana's largest inland lake and an ideal spot for boating, fishing, waterskiing, swimming and camping. Brookville Lake (Brookville), a State Reservoir, also offers great fishing, boating, camping, swimming and hiking. However, you might find some fun you didn't anticipate, such as archery, a shooting range and — in cold weather — ice fishing. Water-filled fun doesn't require sun at Bluespring Caverns Park (Bedford). Take a custom boat tour along the Myst'ry River in an underground world created by water and glaciers. Your guide will point out natural wonders during your mile-plus ride, including unique creatures, such as the rare blind fish and crayfish.

Family Fun: Old, new and fun to do

Kids are always in a hurry to grow up, and they'll feel like giants when they explore kidscommons (Columbus). Enter this 12,000-square-foot fun zone through a child-sized door and watch kids climb on a replica of the museum's exterior. Other exhibits include a nature center, a Japanese house and ExploreAHouse, where kids can crawl up the chimney and slide down the giant toilet. At Spring Mill State Park (Mitchell), you'll get a glimpse of the past. The restored pioneer village takes visitors back to the 1800s, and the Grissom Memorial honors Hoosier astronaut Virgil "Gus" Grissom, America's second man in space. The park also features a Nature Center, Twin Caves, hiking trails and the indoor/outdoor pool at the Spring Mill Inn. Imagine life on a farm, subtract the chores and add some cool activities. You've just pictured Coyote Creek Family Farm (Florence). Kids can take a vintage mini-train ride around the zoo barnyard and meet Shetland ponies, goats, buffalo, rabbits and por-bellied pigs. Other fun activities include gem mining, candle dipping and the Country Store Gift Shop & Candy Kitchen.

CANAL ERA EXPERIENCE

Whitewater Canal in Metamora offers visitors a horse-drawn boat ride into the canal transportation era, and a close-up look at the unique Duck Creek Aqueduct, a covered bridge that carries the canal over Duck Creek. At the end of the canal transportation era, the canal was used as a source of power for many grist mills. The Metamora Grist Mill produces cornmeal, much as it has for more than 100 years.

SOUTH

Create your own story in the Hoosier hills

With its rich history and natural wonders, Southern Indiana is filled with fascinating stories. Spend a few days here and you'll go home with a few of your own.

Arts and Culture: Places of Hoosier pride

The Lincoln Boyhood National Memorial (Lincoln City) is located where Abe Lincoln lived from age seven through 21; several events in 2008-2010 will commemorate the bicentennial of his birth. In 1803, William Clark and Meriwether Lewis left from Southern Indiana to explore the Louisiana Purchase, departing from the home of Clark's brother, George Rogers Clark. Today, at Falls of the Ohio State Park (Clarksville), you can tour a 19th century cabin that's similar to the original and is part of the Lewis and Clark National Historic Trail. Victorian era America is preserved at the Reitz Home Museum (Evansville). Filled with authentic period furniture, the home features French gilt chandeliers and hand-painted ceilings.

Agritourism: Enjoy it at a leisurely pace

Sure, you can pick up a bottle of wine at the supermarket, but you'd be missing out on experiencing the process of wine making. You'll find unique variations at such Southern Indiana wineries as Turtle Run Winery (Corydon) and Huber's Orchard & Winery (Starlight). Founded in 1997, Turtle Run Winery was named after the large number of turtles that can be found on the property. Today, Turtle Run Winery is a favorite of not only wine connoisseurs, but of folks who collect and love turtles! Huber's dates back quite a bit further. Simon Huber settled his farm in 1843, and along with lovely wine, Huber's offers a variety of tours, including "Wine 101," "Wine Enthusiast" and the "Daily Wine Tour." Indiana history buffs know Corydon was once the state capital. Visit today and you'll find rich history and rivertown charm. Downtown Corydon is home to more than 80 businesses within five city blocks. Nearby Apple Valley Greenhouses (New Salisbury) has more than 30,000 square feet of greenhouses filled with bedding plants, perennials and herbs, with everything grown on-site.

Destination Restaurants and Lodging: Hungry meets history

The games at French Lick Resort Casino (French Lick) are left to chance. But what's guaranteed is the pampered way you'll feel after a night or two there. Unwind in the spa and stroll through the Promenade Shoppes. Southern Indiana has a proud German heritage, and you'll get a hearty taste of it at the Schnitzelbank Restaurant (Jasper). Sure, the menu has American items. But why not try the sauerbraten, wiener schnitzel, knackwurst and other German fare? Once visited by Abraham Lincoln, The Log Inn (Warrenton) is Indiana's oldest restaurant. The decor features antiques; the menu features fried chicken, ham, roast beef and fiddlers (that's catfish), along with plenty of side dishes. Meals are served family-style.

When a ski trip out west doesn't fit your schedule or budget, Ski, Snowboard & Snow Tube - Paoli Peaks (Paoli) is a great alternative. Here, you can swoosh your way down a hill with a 300-foot vertical drop. No snow in the forecast? No problem. They'll make it. At Lincoln State Park (Lincoln City), enjoy the great outdoors that the sixteenth president enjoyed as a boy. Originally built in 1834, the nearby Colonel Jones Home (Gentryville) was once owned by Colonel William Jones, a former employer of Abraham Lincoln. This historic home currently offers guided tours by appointment. Some of nature's most beautiful handiwork is found underground. At Marengo Cave (Marengo), a U.S. National Landmark, take a family tour of a natural cave featuring mysterious cave formations, pan for gemstones and experience a twisty cave simulator.

Girlfriend Getaways: Sweets and retreats

What's the point of the treadmill if you can't indulge occasionally? And what better place to indulge than Schimpff's Confectionery (Jeffersonville)? This family-owned company is known for its cinnamon redhots and Modjeskas (caramel-covered marshmallows), as well as many other candies. The confectionery, with its 1950s soda fountain and lunch room, has plenty of sweet charm. You can also indulge at the West Baden Springs Hotel (West Baden). Originally built in 1902, this historical structure closed 30 years later. Now a National Historic Landmark, it reopened as a hotel in June 2007. Today's guests can enjoy fine dining, luxury rooms and suites, pools and The Spa at West Baden. To the west is the community of New Harmony, established nearly 200 years ago. You can tour historic sites, including a Harmonists community house and a mid-Victorian period home. But it's not just a history lesson that awaits you. The tranquil New Harmony Inn features 125 acres of gardens, a day spa, five historical guest houses and the incredible Red Geranium Restaurant.
